HERE IS HOW YOU CAN HELP THE HURRICANE HARVEY VICTIMS AND PREPARE TO HELP HURRICANE IRMA IMPACT

Nurses and other medical professionals from across the country have been lining up to help toward the recovery happening in Texas and Louisiana in the wake of Hurricane Harvey. The American Red Cross has been coordinating the recruitment of medical and mental health professional volunteers for disaster relief operations. Red Cross deployments require a nine-day commitment, along with special Red Cross training. They are looking for licensed nurses, EMT's, paramedics, physician assistants, nurse practitioners, and doctors!

While not seeking volunteers, the Texas Board of Nursing has implemented a disaster licensing procedure that might be helpful for certain nurses who want to help. The board is waiving fees and quickly granting temporary licenses.

Call us if you want to help by working for our clients in Texas.

We will keep you updated on Florida licensure and opportunities to help.
